Re: 9 Brig Ave., Jamestown

Dear Sam & Carol,

Please be advised that the sanitary system at the above location has been inspected and the findings are as follows:

I was originally contacted by Mike Darveau from Darveau Land Surveying regarding the inspection of your ISDS at the above address.

I visited the property and found the septic tank on the westerly side of the residence and found what appeared to be a drywell.

After speaking with Mike, he forwarded a plan designed by Peter Ryan from Island Engineering, application # 8015-172R. The design abandoned the original septic tank at the rear(westerly side) of the house and added a new septic tank to the north side with 5 - 45' trenches paralleling Brig Ave. This design inadvertently crossed the property line and was voided.

A new design, under the same application number, was proposed. This design also abandoned the rear septic tank and added a new tank at the northeast corner of the house with 3 - 75' trenches perpendicular to Brig Ave. For unknown reason(s), this design was also voided. We had attempted to locate this tank with metal detectors but were unsuccessful.

I was then contacted directly by you and upon further research, located a third design with a new application number, #8215-090. This design utilizes the original septic tank at the rear of the residence and flows to the 3 -75' trench system as in the previous voided design. A camera snake and mini excavator were utilized to trace the outlet pipe to the distribution box that was located and unearthed. Upon opening, the three outlet pipes were visible and in good condition. I performed a 300gallon flow test, at which time the system accepted all water with no sign of backup or malfunction.

This system passes inspection.

Please note that there is a Certificate of Construction and a Certificate of Conformance for this installation dated 9/18/82.

If you have any questions, please contact my office.

Thank you,
